Product Database Search

Confidently verify the legitimacy of dietary supplements, designer drugs, pharmaceuticals, and other healthcare products via web form search.

The supplement industry is estimated at $133 billion USD annually — and growing. But dietary supplements are under constant scrutiny by government regulators in the US and abroad. How do you know that your supplement merchants aren't selling illegal products or ingredients, or making misleading claims? With Product Database Search you can check the status of these products and ingredients to verify whether your merchants are operating in compliance. LegitScript's product database contains more than 110,000 dietary supplements, pharmaceuticals, and other healthcare products — including those that contain unsafe ingredients or make problematic marketing claims.

Why use Product Database Search?

Access Data Like No Other

Confidently check whether supplement and other healthcare merchants are operating in compliance by evaluating the legitimacy of their products. LegitScript collects information from regulatory agencies worldwide and proactively identifies new products on a daily basis, ensuring you always have the most accurate and up-to-date information at your fingertips.

Self-check and Monitor

Choose a flexible product search plan to check and monitor supplements and other healthcare products on your own terms.

Get International Coverage

If your merchants are selling dietary supplements and other healthcare products in different countries, you need data that gives you global insight. LegitScript's database is international, covering regulatory information from 60 countries and 115 government agencies. Product classifications can be global or country-specific so you know what products are permissible and where.

Comprehensive classifications that help you confidently assess risk.

Acquirers and payment service providers face regulatory risk, not only if products are intrinsically violative but also if merchants are found to make misleading claims. That's why LegitScript tracks whether products are illegal (classified as "Red Flag") or are associated with misleading claims (classified as "Yellow Flag"). Product classifications can also be global or country-specific so you know what products are permissible and where.

Red Flag — Products are tainted or dangerous, contain unapproved drugs, or are sold in some intrinsically problematic manner.

Yellow Flag — Products are sometimes marketed with impermissible claims that they can cure, mitigate, treat, or prevent diseases, or they contain unsubstantiated claims that they affect the structure or function of the body.
